THE EDUCATION BOOKLET.

EDITOR STAR:—Kindly allow us to say that in this morning's paper, we note the "Education Booklet," compiled by Arthur F. Griffiths, A.M., President of Oahu College. Doubtless, it is a booklet of skill and erudition, worthy of any library, or of the attention of school boards, superintendents, etc. We do not believe any traveler in ten thousand, will pursue the same, further than the cover. We do not mean this for a "kick" or even a cold shoulder and hope it may not be termed that by the general reader; but, we fail to see why the Promotion Committee should use an outlay that will bring in, small monetary return.

The President of Oahu College has a salary entirely commensurate with his able and scholarly work, and is not, certainly, in need of financial help. (Noblesse oblige, No. 2.)

ANNE M. PRESCOTT.

P. S.—If Mr. Griffiths has donated the compendium of facts, for the good of Oahu, that is better.—A. M. P.

MAIL TO FRISCO TOMORROW.

WILLIAM HAYWOOD PROPOSED

THE PLAN TO ESTABLISH A HAWAIIAN PROMOTION BUREAU IN WASHINGTON.

The proposition of establishing a Hawaiian Bureau in Washington has been a good deal discussed among citizens of the Territory who have recently been there and it is believed to have considerable backing here. In this connection there are rumors that William Haywood, former agent of the planters at Washington, may be placed in charge of the work. Haywood has had considerable experience in the character of work required. He is at present in Washington and has already, it is said, taken up consideration of the proposition.

The plan is to have a bureau representing the Territory generally and supported by the planters, promotion committee and business interests generally. It would be in a way a sort of Promotion office. The matter was a good deal discussed while the refunding delegation was in Washington and Jared Smith's letter published this morning, strongly supporting the plan, has given it new strength.

FUNERAL OF MRS. WICHMAN

WAS VERY LARGELY ATTENDED
REMAINS WERE CREMATED—
TO BE INTERRED IN OAKLAND.

The funeral of Mrs. Hattie L. Wichman was held at the Wichman residence yesterday afternoon at two o'clock. The services were conducted by Rev. Dr. William M. Kingdall, and were very impressive. The floral offerings were among the handsomest seen in Honolulu, and were a beautiful tribute to a lovely character.

A quartette consisting of Miss Gertrude Hall, Miss Marion Bell, Hugo Herzer and Raymond Brown sang "Jesus Lover of My Soul" and "Jesus Savior Pilot Me."

Mrs. Wichman was beloved by all who knew her, and the number of her friends was evidenced by the large gathering who attended to pay their last respects.

The remains were cremated after the services and the ashes will be taken by Mr. Wichman and the children to Oakland for final interment in the family plot in Oakland Cemetery.

The pall bearers were Dr. F. R. Day, F. J. Lowrey, J. A. Kennedy, T. P. Lansing, E. R. Stackable, Z. K. Meyers, A. F. Wall and M. M. Johnson.

Mr. Wichman and the children leave on the Mongolia, April 7th.

OVERDUE COAL BARK SIGHTED

BARK KAILANI THOUGHT TO HAVE SEEN THE PACTOLUS
STANDING OFF MAUI.

An overdue vessel from Newcastle is thought to be in the vicinity of the islands. She is the bark Pactolus, out 80 days from Newcastle bound for Elsie. The bark Kailani which arrived this morning from San Francisco, reports having sighted a vessel which in all likelihood, the overdue vessel. There was reinforcement of 15 per cent when the Pactolus was 72 days out.

Captain Colly of the Kailani reports having sighted a bark standing toward the east end of Maui on Tuesday night. The bark was a wooden craft and had a standing gaff and single topgallant yards. The strange vessel was not able to weather Maui and then stood out again on the following morning. In all likelihood it is the American bark which is out so long. She should arrive soon.

OLYMPIA AGAIN

The steamer Olympia is being advertised to leave here on April 8 with Japanese for the coast. Haga, the labor solicitor, is advertising in all the Japanese dailies, that she will leave on that date, and that Japs are wanted for employment on the mainland, wages to be from $37.50 per month up. The fare is advertised as $36, of which only $10 need be paid in advance, the rest being charged to the laborers to be taken out of their wages after arrival. Those who pay cash, say the advertisements, will be taken to the coast for $30.

HALEIWA.

The Haleiwa Hotel, Honolulu's famous country resort, on the line of the Oahu Railway, contains every modern improvement and affords its guests an opportunity to enjoy all amusements—golf, tennis, billiards, fresh and salt water bathing, shooting, fishing, riding and driving. Ticket, including railway fare and one full day's room and board, are sold at the Honolulu Station and Trent & Company for $5. For departure of trains, consult time table.

On Sundays, the Haleiwa Limited, a two hour train, leaves at 8:22 a. m.; returning, arrives in Honolulu at 10

NEILL'S FATHER CABLES

ASKS THAT THE BODY BE BURIED
AND A RIGID INVESTIGATION MADE.

Henry Neill of Helena, Montana, father of the Oregon sailor who lost his life while the vessel was here, has cabled here as follows:

"HELENA, Mont., March 28.—To Secretary of State, Honolulu: Body of Seaman Samuel Neill found in harbor yesterday my son. Kindly have body buried and have appropriately marked will you also investigate thoroughly cause of death. Draw on me for any expense.

"HENRY NEILL."

The following is the answer sent. "Henry Neill, Helena, Montana: Remains buried yesterday government plot military funeral. Coroner's verdict accidental death drowning. Admired charge naval station ex-acted every official care. Question monument referred to crew battleship Oregon. Will write details.

"ATKINSON."

According to the usual custom in the navy, the Department will make a full report of the matter to the parents of the deceased, and the crew of the Oregon will take up the proposition of providing a monument. It is another custom of the navy to get monuments by subscriptions among the mates of those who lose their lives, and on arrival of the Oregon at San Francisco the matter will be taken up.

The investigation here has gone as far as it can. It is possible that among those now on board the Oregon may be some who will be able to shed some light on the case, by telling where the dead man was last seen.

GOOD NEWS.

The county auditor will pay off all the employees tomorrow.

JIM BLUDSO

Well, no, I can't tell what he lives. Because he don't live, you see; Leastways, he's got out of the habit of livin' like you an' me.

What have you been for the last three years.

That you haven't heard folks tell How Jim Bludso passed in his checks.

The night of the "Prairie Belle?"

He wasn't no saint—them engineers Is pretty much all alike—

One wife in Natchez-under-the-Hill, And another one here, in Pike.

A keener man in his talk was Jim, And an awkward man in a row—

But he never flunked, and he never lied, I reckon he never knowed how.

And this was all the religion he had— To treat his engine well;

Never be passed on the river; To mind the pilot's bell;

And if ever the "Prairie Belle" took fire A thousand times he swore

He'd hold her nozzle against the bank Till the last soul got ashore.

All boats has their day on the Mississippi And her day come at last—

The Movaster was a better boat Than the Belle, she wouldn't be passed

And so she came tearin' along that night

The oldest craft on the line, With a sagger squat on her safety valve

And her furnace crammed, rosin and pine.

The fire bust out as she clared the bar And burnt a hole in the night.

And quick as a flash she turned, and made

For that willer-bank on the right, There was runnin' and cursin' but Jim yelled out

Over all the infernal roar, "I'll hold her nozzle agin the bank

Till the last galoot's ashore."

Thro' the hot, black breath of the burnin' boat

Jim Hudso's voice was heard And they all had trust in his cussedness

And know'd he would keep his word, And sure's you're born, they all got off

Afore the smoke-stack fell.

And Bludso's ghost went up alone In the smoke of the "Prairie Belle."

He wasn't no saint—but at judgment I'd run my chance with Jim

"Longside of some plous gentlemen That wouldn't shook hands with him.

He seen his duty, a dead sure thing— And went for it thar and then,

And Christ ain't a going to be too hard On a man who died for men.

—John Hay.

that he was resolved to maintain intact his autocratic power.

"It was a set lesson, learned by rote and spoken with the mechanical precision of a phonograph. When it was over the emperor turned and left the hall with all the relief of a schoolboy who had spoken his piece and finished his lesson. But if the effect of that blighting speech was evil in the nation it had still more disastrous results for the emperor. The words which had been put into his mouth operated like one of the magic formulae which in fairy tales suddenly transform a palace into a prison and banish the hero far away into the heart of an enchanted forest where he must sleep unseen until the hour of his deliverance. From that moment he was a helpless prisoner in the hands of his ministers.

GLAD HE IS GONE.

We are glad to state that the intense sufferings of Lem Colwell who was hurt in the explosion some time ago are over. He died Monday at 3 p. m.—Colton (Mo.) Messenger.

PAINFUL SCENES AT JOHNSON TRIAL

was the question which led to the mid-morning recess. Prosser had put questions which led Mrs. Wharton through her story of the fatal morning, from the time when she saw her boy playing in a swing under a man's tree to the time when, as she put it, she began, on observing Johnson's signs of fear, to think he had done away with her child. She had just told of having insistently ordered Johnson to bring back her boy and seeing him start to search again and then re-entering her home.

When Prosser put the question as to what happened next, the mother suddenly clasped her hands and broke forth with a wail. The answer she began was to say that she was beginning to think that her poor boy was lost, but instead of finishing the reply she raised her clasped hands and uttered broken down.

Prosser immediately asked for a recess and the court ordered it, and men were using handkerchiefs as they left the room. Mrs. Wharton kept her seat on the witness stand and throughout the ten-minute recess she sat crying. Only a few feet from her sat Johnson, a little, dried-up, miserable-looking specimen of humanity, never changing the position in which he had sat through the morning, facing his jury.

Mrs. Wharton made a very clear witness except for the interruptions. She was allowed to tell her story very freely. Attorney Harrison, for the defendant, showed no signs of making a technical fight, not objecting more than once or twice during the morning, to leading questions or to testimony more or less in the nature of hearsay. Hence the mother told her story rapidly.

The witness told of several different times during the day when she said to Johnson that he was last seen with her boy, and he must go and find him. Johnson told her he had left little Simon playing with the other boys. At the time when he told her this, it is claimed, the boy's hatched-up body lay where he had buried it. Mrs. Wharton said that Johnson's clothes were dirty with red dirt—blood, the prosecution will try to prove—and that he appeared scared. "You go and find my child," the mother said to him, "and send him directly to me."

Johnson insisted that he had left the boy with the others and finally he became angry. "What is the use of searching any more," he said, "I am tired, very tired, of searching."

Between these various conversations, Johnson made searching trips, which the witness showed on the map as far as she knew them. Each time the mother said she demanded that he return to her, and each time Johnson turned her son to her, and each time Johnson seemed more and more frightened.

After the recess Mrs. Wharton told of doing some searching herself, until she was tired. Then the consultation of a Chinese fortune-teller, as already published, was described, and finally the witness said, a searcher named Maki came out from the brush, where he had gone at the direction of the soothsayer, that he had found Simon's pants. At this point Detective Chester Doyle produced the little pair of pants, dark with blood stains and dirt, as they were found. Mrs. Wharton in answer to the necessary questions sobbed that they had been her boy's. They were the ones he had worn on the day of his death.

The unhappy woman had to go through the same ordeal with the shirt and the blouse, and worse still, with the finding of her boy's body. A part of the leg was found first, then an arm and finally the trunk. She was asked how she was able to testify that the leg was that of Simon Wharton.

"It was my own boy's and of course I knew it," she replied, giving as a further reason that the complexion and marks showed it.

BRITISH CRUISERS TO LEAVE.

The British cruisers Cambrian and Flora will leave here April 1. They will go to Panama from here.

WILL HIRE THE MOLOKANS.

Louis Marks of the stevedoring company, says that none of the Molokans who arrived from Kaula yesterday, have applied to him for work, but when they do they will be employed.

PAID OFF BRITISH SAILORS.

The sailors on the British cruiser Cambrian were paid off today.

SURPOENAS CONFLICT.

Chester Doyle was served this morning with a subpoena to appear at the Hilo circuit court as a witness in a Japanese case about to be tried. Doyle is already under subpoena here in the Johnson case and will probably have to risk disobeying the Hilo summons. As a solution of the problem he is considering a trip to Maui, by way of trying to stop half way and treat both courts alike.

NIHAU BROUGHT CATTLE.

The steamer Nihaui arrived this morning at 10 o'clock from Napoosoo and Mahukona. She went to Hawaii from Kaula. The vessel brought 64 head of cattle.

BROWN VS. SPRECKELS.

Judge De Bolt this morning resumed hearing of the matter of the motion for a new trial of the case of Brown against Spreckels. A lot more affidavits have been filed, on the subject of whether the jurors were influenced by the court's remarks in favor of plaintiff, when the court ruled on a motion for a directed motion. Attorneys Lightfoot and Magoon were witnesses this morning, while in addition to them there were counsel Kinney, Stanley, Anderson and Ballou.

ROBINSON'S COMMISSION.

Judge Robinson received his commission as a circuit judge, for his second term, by yesterday's mail.

CUTTING AFFRAY AT WAIPAHU

FOUR JAPANESE ATTACK A
COUNTRYMAN AND SEVERELY
CUT HIM ABOUT THE HEAD.

As a result of a feud growing out of the strike on the Oahu Plantation two years ago one Japanese was nearly murdered and four of his countrymen are on the reef awaiting trial, charged with assault with intent to murder.

Yunehiro, the injured man, was one of the leaders of the strike two years ago, and he was forced to leave the plantation. He opened a store at Waipahu and has been doing business there since. It was understood that there was considerable hard feeling between him and some of the other Japanese on the plantation.

On March 19 four men who are said to have been Soba, Nisiki, Akiyama and Kido, broke into Yunehiro's house, and after putting out the light, attacked him. His wife and children gave the alarm and Yunehiro's bookkeeper and clerk came to his assistance, but not before he was severely cut about the head with a knife.

The assailants fled but left a knife and hat behind them. Yunehiro had to have several stitches taken in his head. Four men were arrested and the case was transferred from Ewa to Honolulu. It will come up before Judge Whitney tomorrow morning. Yunehiro will be on hand to testify at the prosecution.

Two of the alleged assailants, Akiyama and Nisiki were the leaders in the recent strike at Oahu. The authorities say that they are continually causing trouble.

LEFT FOR THE ORIENT.

W. H. M. Noel of H. Hackfeld & Company, severed his connection with that firm and left by the S. S. Korea yesterday for Japan to enter the employ of a large Dutch firm. He had been secretary of the Symphony Orchestra for several years and his presence will be greatly missed by musical people.

SAILING CRAFT ARRIVE TODAY.

The bark Kaulani 19 days from San Francisco and the schooner Helene 21 days from San Francisco, arrived this morning. Both report disagreeable weather. Nothing of particular interest occurred. The Kaulani had three passengers and the Helene one. The Helene brought about 1,600 tons of freight and the Kaulani 1,500 tons for this port. Both boats will load sugar for San Francisco.

HERBERT REAPPOINTED.

Acting Governor Atkinson this morning signed a commission reappointing Dr. George Herbert as a member of the Board of Medical Examiners.

LAHAINA LOCALS.

Mrs. C. A. MacDonald is about to visit friends on the Atlantic coast. She will take with her a large number of island photographs. Mrs. S. Decoto will accompany her as far as Boston.

One of the best buildings in this town is the new structure erected for the Lahaina Bank. It is very nicely finished, and is conveniently located.

APPROVED THE TRUST DEED.

There was a special meeting of the stockholders of Oahu Sugar Company this morning for the purpose of
